The Admiral and the Father.

Probably few Governors have ever been placed in such a trying position as that in which Governor Desha, of Kentucky, found himself after his accession to office. His only son was tried and convicted of murder. The melancholy event made it necessary for the Governor to decide between signing his son's death-warrant or his pardon.

Two or three years subsequent to the trial, Judge Bushrod Washington, of the United States Supreme Court, was chatting with a number of lawyers at Trenton One of them remarked that the Governor was placed in a sad difficulty.

"Do you really think his position a difficult one?" asked the Judge.

"Certainly. What, as an upright Judge, would you do in such a case?"

"Do! Do you doubt, sir, what I would do?" replied the Judge, with vehement energy. "Why, sir, I would pardon him at once. The time has long gone by when it was deemed either honorable or natural to play the Roman father."

This anecdote was recalled by an incident which exhibits the late Admiral Farragut as subordinating the feelings of a father to the judgment of a commander.

A short time before the admiral's fleet made the memorable attempt to pass the batteries at Port Hudson, in which only the Hartford and one gun-boat succeeded, his son, an only child, visited his father on board the Hartford.

All hands knew that the passage would be hot work. An hour or two before the attack, the fleet surgeon, Mr. Feltz, requested the admiral to permit his son to assist him (the surgeon) below, with the wounded. The son was not in the service, and had everything to lose and nothing to gain by exposure on the deck. The surgeon, therefore, thought it exceedingly proper that he should be in the most protected part of the ship.

Admiral Farragut listened patiently to the request. But the reply was a decided refusal.

"No, that will not do. True, my only child is on board by chance, and he is not in the service. But, being here, he will act as one of my aids, and we will trust in Providence."

The surgeon also made the same suggestion to the son. "I want to be stationed on deck and see the fight," was his answer.

As the ship neared the batteries, the admiral, who was standing on the poop-deck, became, for a moment, the anxious father. He took from his pocket a piece of hempen rope, about a yard in length, to which was fastened a wooden cross-piece.

In the most affectionate manner, he showed his son how quickly the rope could be passed round a wounded limb and twisted tightly by the cross-piece. After this practical lesson as to the mode of using a tourniquet and staunching a wound, the father retired, and the admiral resumed sway.

We are inclined to the belief that Admiral Farragut could have played the Roman father if duty had called for the part.

At a recent scientific meeting held at the New York Medical University, a paper was read upon a new method of treating cancer. The discovery consists in applying to the surface of the sore the chlorate of chromium, a new salt of this rare metal, incorporated into stramonium ointment. This preparation in a few hours converts the tumor into a perfect carbon and it crumbles away. Specimens of cancer carbonized were inspected by a number of physicians which had the appearance of charcoal and were easily pulverized between the fingers. The remedy causes little or no pain and is not poisonous.

"I was walking one day through the Uffizi Palace, when I heard a voice calling out, "Papa, come here, and look at Titian's "Flora." I turned, and beheld one of the commonest sights in Florence—an American family dutifully going through the orthodox wonders of the place, with no glimmer of real appreciation for the works of art about them. The reply of the worthy man I shall never forget, nor its tone of mildly reproaching astonishment: "My dear, I don't want to see that. I have a copy of it at home, you know."—June Scribner.

The short prayer of the Italian may find responsive minds in any clime: "I pray that I may never be married. But if I marry, I pray that I may not be deceived. But if I am deceived, I pray that I may never know of it. But if I know it; I pray that I may be able to laugh at the whole affair.

The New Haven Journal says that a few days ago a large Newfoundland dog, accompanied by a small black and tan, visited a Hartford police officer's yard and deliberately killed a pet Scoth terrier belonging to the house. The two strange dogs carried the body away, finally leaving it on Windsor avenue.

Many professional people are now complaining of the badness of the time, but none look so much down in the mouth as the dentists.

Money Puffed Away in Smoke.

It is a startling truth that New York pays more for cigars than bread, and this is easily seen when individual cigar bills run up to three hundred dollars per annum. I know one man who was unable to save anything on an income of twelve thousand dollars a year, and he gave among the reasons that it cost him ten dollars per week for cigars. If all his expenses were at such a rate there could be very little chance at accumulation. There are many smokers who average one hundred cigars a week. These are the men who build up such fortunes as the Gilseys and others have made. Peter Gilsey landed in New York a poor emigrant. He was a piano maker, but opened a cigar shop in the Bowery, which his wife tended while he wrought at his trade. From this humble beginning Gilsey became one of the most extensive dealers in the city. He had at one time nearly a dozen cigar shops, and he left an estate worth two million dollars. The Gilsey House is one of his creations, and the splendid establishment known as the "Gilsey Building," corner of Broadway and Courtland street, is another.

The Same old Story.

An Oxford undergraduate was showing a sister over his rooms in the college, when some one knocked at the door. Supposing that it was some of his friends, and not wishing to be chaffed, he hid her behind the curtains, and admitted an elderly gentleman who apologized profusely for his intrusion, and excused himself by saying that it was many years since he had been at Oxford, and he could not leave without paying a visit to his dear old college and the room he had occupied as a student.

"Ah," cried the old gentleman, looking around, "the same old sofa, and the same old carpet, everything the same."

Then walking into the bedroom, he remarked: "Yes, and the same old bed, and the same old washstand. Yes, everything the same."

Presently he stepped towards the curtains and remarked: "Ah, and the same old curtains." Looking around he beheld the young lady, and turning around, he said: "Ah, you young dog! and the same old game.",

"But," hastily replied the under-graduate, "that young lady is my sister." To which the reply came, "Yes, and the same old story."—London Telegraph.

BEARING EACH OTHER'S BURDENS.—Life teems with unnecessary pain. For every living soul there is work to do, effort to make, sorrow to alleviate. No day in the short time allotted to us here should pass without some attempt, however feeble, to lessen the load of suffering pressing so unequally on the lives of those around us. All can do some little, and if each soul that has suffered would take a share in removing or lessening the burden of another, life would be other than it is. An old writer beautifully says. "All can give a smile." How few value a smile as they should, yet who does not know the brightness which some faces bring whenever they appear? The smile of kindly recognition, the acknowledgment of existing suffering, the free masonry of endurance, all are conveyed by a glance, and none can tell how often the effort to be cheerful has helped a weaker sufferer to endure.—Social Notes.

In Cleveland, Ohio, the other day, a gentleman was arrested and tried for smoking on the street cars, after repeated orders to refrain from so doing. The Court decided that the offence was no greater than that of many so-called ladies who annoy passengers on the cars by the use of vile toilet perfumes, and that the defendant might be released on the payment of costs.

Not a day passes over the earth but men and women of no note do great deeds, speak great words and suffer noble sorrows. Of these obscure heroes, philosophers and martyrs, the greater part will never be known till that hour when many that were great shall be small, and the small great; but of others the world's knowledge may be said to sleep, their lives and characters lay hidden from nations in the annals that record them.—Charles Reade.

A stranger, passing a churchyard and seeing a hearse standing by, inquired who was dead. The sexton informed him. "What complaint?" asked the inquisitive one. Said the old man: "There is no complaint; everybody is satisfied."

Election, Tuesday, November 2, 1880.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C. June 28, 1880.

It is safe to say that within a month the Democrats will realize, even if they do not admit it, that the nomination of General Hancock was a serious mistake, and that his defeat is as certain as was the defeat of General McClellan in 1864, and of Greely and General Brown in 1872. For years the Democrats have wooed the Northern soldier vote, but so far without success. With hollow cries of "reform" and "retrenchment" they have tried to win the Northern independent vote, and at a very favorable time they nominated Tilden, but all their efforts have been in vain. Now, again, after a lapse of years, and when the Southern Democrats deceive themselves with the thought that their purpose will remain concealed or forgotten, they nominate another Union soldier, and hope by hiding behind loyalty to accomplish what they have failed to do in former years. But the North will not be deceived. What would General Hancock, a soldier, and ignorant of political wiles and intrigues, be in the hands of the men, who would naturally be called in to advise and counsel him. They are the same men who, when victory perched on the Northern banners in 1864, stepped to the front and declared the war and its results a failure. Are these men now to be trusted to guide and direct the government they sought by the most desperate means to destroy, and will Northern loyalists vote to elect a man for President who is exposed to such influences? I think not. General Hancock made a splendid record during the war, and for which he is beloved by Republicans. But, General Garfield's record was as brilliant if not so long. General Hancock was educated a soldier, and as such he did his duty. But though Garfield was educated a scholar, did he not rise rapidly, and through his merits to a position equal to that of Hancock? General Garfield is of the people. He has been associated with them all his life and understands their true worth and their needs. General Hancock was early removed from the people, and all his life has been connected with the Military circles. No man need desert his party or support Hancock because he is a better man or soldier. In General Hancock's record as Governor of Louisiana and Texas in 1867, we see an assertion of his opinion in opposition to that of his superiors that amounted nearly to direct disobedience to orders. We saw also a desire on his part to crush out the infant Republican party in those States, and in every possible way he touched to the Rebel sentiment. Under his command Union men were hunted down and murdered by klu-klux and White-Leagues without rebuke, and upon General Grant's inauguration he was relieved of his command as an impediment to the execution of the re-construction acts. For his good deeds in 1867-68, the South has nominated him for President, and it asks for the support of Northern loyalists. But they ask in vain, the defeat of Hancock is certain, but that certainty must come through work.

MAXWELL.

The N. Y. Tribune says: General Wm. F. Smith confirms the statement that General Hancock declared his intention in 1876, to obey the orders of Tilden as President of the United States, should that gentleman take the oath of office.

Garfield & Arthur Clubs are being organized in every part of the State, and Republicans are beginning to enthuse, now the Fourth has passed, and are buckling on their armor and preparing to battle for Garfield and the Right.

GARFIELD AND THE CHINESE.

The Democratic papers are doing their utmost to make the voters of the Pacific coast believe that Garfield is more in sympathy with the Eastern sentiment respecting the Chinese in our midst, than he is with the Californians. A few years ago General Garfield visited California and made a tour of the Chinese quarter of San Francisco—and posted himself very thoroughly on their mode of life, etc. On his return to his Eastern home he was interviewed in the cars, and the following is what he said in regard to what he had learned about the "Heathen Chinee" while on this coast:

I have seen in a space no greater than the length and hight of this sleeping car berth, in a Chinese tenement quarter in San Francisco, the home of twelve Chinamen. In that space they actually lived—yes, actually lived most of their time. There they crouched (all doubled up), and there they cooked, ate, slept, and, in a word, lived. They cooked with a little lump a mess of stuff that they import from China, which, like their rice food, is very cheap, and a mere pittance in the way of earnings on the street will supply them food and clothes for an indefinite time. A few cents per day is more to them than a dollar to the commonest American laborer. Hence the lowest grade of poor paid labor retires before a pestilence. This is not all. They have no assimilation whatever to Caucasian civilization. The negro assimilates with the Caucasian. He adopts our civilization—professes our religion—works for our wages, and is a customer for everything that civilization produces. Hence (using a figure of physiology) we can take him up in the circulation of the body politic and assimilate him—make a man and a brother of him, as the phrase goes; but not so in the least degree with the Chinaman. And this brings me to say that one of the great questions that now press upon Congress and the country for immediate attention and solution is what shall we do with reference to Chinese immigration? We have always refused to citizenize them; shall we continue the treaty under which they are immigrating to our shores."

The above is sufficient to show to the people of California that General Garfield is in full sympathy with the people of the Pacific coast on the Chinese question, and that if elected President he would be found in full accord with every measure calculated to remedy the evil.

The Folsom State Prison is now ready to receive a limited number of prisoners. T. C. Rockman is Warden, and John M. Minor, Clerk of the prison.

DIVIDEND.—The Standard Con. has declared its regular monthly dividend of seventy-five cents a share.

The population of Virginia City is 11,600; Gold Hill, 4,430, and Flowery, 160—a total for Storey county of 16,240.

Garfield is the name of a new Gunnison town. Good people must live there.

Grass Valley has a population of about 4,000, and the township 7,0 60—a decrease of 3 in ten years—the population of the township in 1870 having been 7,063.

It is understood that General Hancock will resign his position as Major General prior to writing his letter of acceptance.

The Governor has appointed J. L. Tharp as Registrar of Voters for San Francisco vice Kaplan.

The first batch of prisoners from San Quentin will be taken to Folsom this week.

The Supervisors of the census have completed their labors and give Chicago a population of 501,979.

The wife of John Swinerton died suddenly in Sacramento on the 5th.

THE CHRONICLE.

BODIE, JULY 10, 1880.

The CHRONICLE Office is on the second floor of "Goodson's Building," east side of Main street, between Standard Avenue and Green street.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

SUPERIOR COURT.

WIGGIN, Judge.

JULY 6, 1880.

A Grand Jury was empanneled as follows: J. K. Dennison, Foreman; B. Rosenthal, F. R. Brown, J. L. Colman, Jos. McDermott, A. F. Hector, W. H. Ellis, Alex. Beck, D. Shannon, R. K. Peasley, Jas. Sinnamon, H. Donnell, Thos. McNamara, D. W. Wording, O. H. P. Love, L. Huntoon, Wm. Rabjohn, J. F. Byrne, F. Plaines.

Judge Wiggin charged the Grand Jury as follows:

GENTLEMEN OF THE GRAND JURY:—

You have been summoned from the body of citizens of the county at large to exercise grave and important functions; and before entering upon your labors, it is made the duty of the Court to give you such information as may be proper and as is required by law to be given as to your duties and responsibilities in the situation to which you have been called. The oath taken by your foreman, and to which you have all assented, well summarises that portion of your duties which concern public offenses and offenders. You have taken a solemn obligation that you will diligently inquire into and true presentment make of all public offenses committed or triable in this county of which you shall have or can obtain legal evidence; that you will present no person through malice, hatred or ill-will, nor leave any one unpresented through favor, fear or affection, or for any reward or the promise or hope thereof, but that in all your presentments you will present the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. The responsibility you have thereby assumed is a grave and mighty one; and it must be the care of each of you to reconcile with his conscience his performance of this most important duty. Remember well that there is none so proud or lofty that, if an evil-doer, the strong arm of the law cannot reach and pluck him from his ill-attained elevation; none so poor and humble that the same strong arm cannot raise and shelter him, or protect him from the oppression of the cruel and rapacious. It is the proud boast of Anglo-Saxon civilization that all men are equal before the law, and it rests with you, gentlemen of the jury, and with bodies similarly constituted, to show that this is no idle tale. The more especially are your duties to be carefully considered and scrupulously performed, since, under the provisions of the new Constitution of this State, but one Grand Jury will, in any probability, be summoned during the current year. What, therefore, you leave undone, must so remain until we have entered upon another year.

It is further made your duty by law to inquire into the case of every person imprisoned in the jail of the county on a criminal charge and not indicted; to inquire into the condition and management of the public prisons within the county; and into the wilful and corrupt misconduct in office of all public officers within the county; and the Court charges you especially that it is your duty to make a careful and complete examination of the books, records and accounts of all officers of the county, and especially those pertaining to the revenue, and to report thereon; and, if, in your judgment, the services of an expert are necessary, you have power to employ one at an agreed compensation, not to exceed five dollars per day. The utility of [illegible] of inquisition being vested in a Grand Jury, and the necessity for its careful and discriminating use; may be gathered from the criminal records of a neighboring county, where the neglect of such an exercise of power has, or may have, emboldened those in official positions to plunder the County Treasury, and where the crimes, or, at best, the criminal neglect of county officials, has recoiled upon their own heads, to their eternal obloquy and disgrace. In such or any investigation that you may be authorized to make, you are entitled at all reasonable times, to free access to the public prisons, and to the examination, without charge, of all public records within the county.

In investigation of charges, you can receive no evidence other than such as given by witnesses produced and sworn before you, or furnished by legal documentary evidence, or the deposition of a witness taken before a committing magistrate as provided by law. You are to receive none but legal evidence and the best evidence in degree, to the exclusion of hearsay or secondary evidence. You are not bound to hear evidence for a defendant, but it is your duty to weigh all the evidence submitted to you, and if you have reason to believe that other evidence within your reach will explain away a charge, you should order such evidence to be produced.

Your duty as to the finding of an indictment is plain and simple. If all the evidence before you, taken together and unexplained or uncontradicted, would, in your judgment, warrant a conviction by a trial jury, you must find an indictment. With the ultimate fact of the guilt or innocence of the accused, except as before indicated, you have no concern. The decision of that question is left to another tribunal, and when you have used your best judgment upon the issue of the evidence before you, your functions cease.

If any one of your members knows or has reason to believe that a public offense, triable within the county, has been committed, he must declare the same to his fellow members, who must investigate the same.

You may, at all reasonable times, ask the advice of the Court or of the District Attorney. This latter officer may at all times appear before you for the purpose of giving you information or advice, and may interrogate witnesses before you, whenever he or you may think it necessary; but no other person is permitted to be present during your sessions, except the witnesses under examination; and no person must be present during the expression of your opinions, or while giving your votes upon any matter before you.

Twelve out of your number must concur in the finding of any indictment, and when so found it must be endorsed "A true bill," and the indictment must be signed by your foreman.

The law has, for various prudential reasons, and wisely, thrown the veil of secrecy over your deliberations and proceedings. You are, therefore, to keep your own counsel; and you will not, except when required in the due course of judicial proceedings, disclose the testimony of any witness examined before you, nor anything said in your jury room, nor the manner in which any of your number may have voted. Your attention is particularly directed to this matter, as it has frequently happened that the ends of justice have been defeated by incautious admissions or denials as to the progress of business before a grand jury. Should and one seek to approach you or question you in this regard, bear in mind that such curiosity is impertinent and obtrusive, and should be at once reported to the Court, in order that a recurrence of such inquiry may be prevented.

Lastly, gentlemen of the Grand Jury, do not forget that the fair name and fame of this growing and prosperous county are, in a great measure, in your hands. There is, in man, an inate tendency to riot and lawlessness, which seems to especially develop itself in frontier and mining counties. Remember that none the less are the Sierras of this county an integral part of a law-governed, law-abiding State, than are the broad plains that border the western ocean; that none the less are right of life, limb and property to be respected and protected in a mining county, than in an agricultural or commercial community.

Upon you, gentleman of the Grand Jury, is imposed the duty of showing that here as elsewhere in our great State, equal laws and equal rights have a fixed and definite meaning, and that their enforcement is and shall be a reality, and not a hollow mockery.

Commending these matters to your careful attention, the Court directs you to enter upon the discharge of your duties.

Mining Transfers.

The following deeds have been recorded in the County Recorder's office:

July 1.

Wm. F. DeCamp to Ira Upson, Little Grant mine, Homer District.

George W. Shacklet to H. G. Blasdel, Onchitee mine, Bodie District.

George Vincent to Wm. D. Wasson, Don Allvader mine, Homer District, $500.

H. C. Whipple to A. J. Houk, one-third interest in Golden Reef mine, Homer District, $50.

July 3.

John Welch to Nelson M. Parsons, 750 feet each in San Francisco, Snow Storm, and Buena Vista, Homer District, $500.

Wm. A. Kermode to Lake Vivian M. Co., Vivian mine, Homer District.

July 6.

Wm. B. Cay to Red Cloud M. Co. placer claim near Red Cloud mine, Bodie District.

Transfers of Real Estate.

The following deeds have been recorded in the County Recorder's office:

July 1.

A. F. Bryant and wife to County of Mono, lot for Court House, Bridgeport.

S. Baker to W. D. Wasson, Lake House property.

Mrs. Catherine Elliott to Mrs. Ann Mccarty, house and lot on Green street, Bodie, $800.

New Suits.

The following new suits have been commenced in the Superior Court:

Sonora Con. M. Co. vs. Spaulding M. Co., Drake.

J. J. Kelly vs. Spaulding M. Co., Drake.

O. S. Dawson vs. Spaulding M. Co., Drake.

G. Morse vs. G. B. Fleming; Reddy & Gorham; Kittrell & Owen, and Huffaker.

Boston Con. M. Co. vs. Spaulding M. Co.; Reddy & Gorham.

THE REASON.—The Orator of the Horribles on the Fourth said that "a newspaper man had recently bought a new suit of clothes for $4 50, and the reason he didn't get a $2 50 suit was because he couldn't." The poor fellow should join an amateur threatrical troupe, play for the benefit of some charitable object, and then have a "complimentary benefit" tendered him by our "leading citizens." By so doing he could probably manage to dress "nobby" for awhile. By-the-way, isn't it time another complimentary benefit was tendered somebody.

INCORPORATION OF TOWNS.—Our morning cotem. is "off" on this question. Under the old Constitution there was a general law, and, under it, Anaheim, Grass Valley and Truckee were incorporated by the Board of Supervisors. Nothing but the stubborness of the people of Bodie prevented the town being incorporated last year.

JOLLY BROTHERS.—The Jolly Brothers will hold a special meeting at the Carsonian at 8 o'clock to-morrow (Sunday) evening. A punctual attendance is desired, to complete arrangements for the party on the 16th.

VALLEY VIEW.—Under "New To-Day" will be found the advertisement of the Valley View Station, M. A. Hearne, proprietor. We commend the house to the public.

TOLL ROAD.—Sage brush is placed on the Bodie and Big Meadows road to keep the dust down. The upper toll-house has been moved a half-mile nearer Bodie, and the road widened from there to this city.

FOR SHERIFF.—In another column will be found the announcement of P. B. Taylor, incumbent, for Sheriff, subject to the nomination of the Republican Convention.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.—District Attorney Parker announces himself in another column as a candidate for re-election.

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

The National anniversary was heralded by the tooting of the scores of steam whistles of our mills and hoisting works, and the firing of salutes at 12 o'clock midnight of Saturday, and about 4:30 A. M. of Sunday Haskin's Brass Band took a position in the observatory of the Belvidere works and played "Hail Columbia," "Star Spangled Banner," "Red White and Blue" and "America." At sunrise the Standard gun was brought out and belched forth a welcome to the Day of all Days. Flags were flung to the breeze and our city put on its best bib and tucker. Main street presented a very pleasing and patriotic appearance, with its innumerable decorations of evergreens, flags and festoons of bunting. Sunday was allowed to pass quietly, but at an early hour on Monday morning the thunders of the Standard M & M Co's artillery banished sleep and our streets were soon filled with those anxious to take in all of the "glorious Fourth."

At an early hour preparations were in order for the grand procession, which moved promptly at 10:30 o'clock in the following order:

Band.
Grand Marshal, Capt. I, G. Messic
Aids.
Standard M & M. Co. Artillery Company.
The gun was drawn by four white horses.
Mexican Veterans.
Bodie Pacific Coast Pioneers.
Union Soldiers.
President, Orator, Readers,
Chaplain and Poet in a carriage.
Chief Engineer and Assistants.
Babcock Engine Co. No 1.

Engine drawn by 4 horses. The engine was highly burnished and beautifully decorated. Under a canopy Miss Annie Midgely attracted much attention. Twenty members in uniform—red shirts and black pants—did escort duty.

Pioneer H. & L. Co. No 1.

Truck handsomely decorated. A Fire King and Queen, Master Tobin and Miss Hattie Murphy, were cosy under the tasty canopy, and were much admired. The members were in uniform—red shirts and black pants—and though few in number looked well.

Champion Hose Co. No 1.

The jumper was drawn by 37 members in full uniform—red shirts, black pants and straw hats. The rope was covered with red, white and blue cloth, and the jumper was elaborately ornamented and surmounted by a beautiful canoby, which was occubied by Miss Gortie Schmidt. This company looked well, and as if it could do good duty when required.

Neptune Hose Co. No 2.

The apparatus was drawn by 44 members in uniform, blue shirts, black pants and straw hats. The rope was covered. The beautiful canopy covered the hose reel, and little Pearl Phillips was the Fire Queen. The company was headed by four ax men, and made a fine appearance.

Col. Ellsworth's Booker Artillery.

A small brass cannon, made at the Booker mine, and drawn by ten small boys under the command of Master Charlie Irwin, who was mounted on a fine pony richly caparisoned. The boys were uniformed in fancy red shirts and attracted great attention.

Car of State.

Drawn by six large black horses. Miss May Temple was the Goddess of Liberty, and a beautiful Goddess she was, too. Miss Bertha Said was Justice. The several States were well represented by the sweetest young Misses in our city. The Car of State was tastefully decorated and, containing so much loveliness, was very attractive. This was followed by the Bodie Miners' Union.

As a Guard of Honor. The Union turned out 202 strong under the command of President Shaughnessy and made a fine appearance.

Prospect and California B. B. Clubs.
Citizens on Horses.
Butches's Association.

The butchers of Bodie were the "boss racket" of the procession. A large wagon, elaborately decorated with bunting and evergreens, contained Haskin's Brass Band, which discoursed fine music, and a number of "cutters" with their cleavers in hand, and knives in holsters attached to belts around their waists. They were all dressed in red shirts and black pants. On a small platform in the center of the wagon two innocent lambs exhibited themselves. This wagon was drawn by 6 gray horses, and was followed by the Summers & Co's Love and Hudson's and C. H. Kilgor'e market wagons all beautifully decorated. The proprietors followed in their buggies—alttogether making a fine display.

Pioneer Bakery Wagon.
Pioneer Brewery Car.

Drawn by 4 horses. The car was well supplied with lager, which was liberally distributed to the thirsty souls along the route by old Gambrinus himself. The car was graced with the legend "They all Like it".

Bodie Brewery wagon.
Weber's Blacksmithing Car.

This was drawn by 8 mules and contained blacksmiths at work. This was followed by another wagon containing a live horse, which was being shod.

Citizens in carriages.
Citizens on horseback
Piute Indians.

About 80 Piutes on horseback—in some instances two occupying the deck of one horse—closed the procession.

After marching through the principal streets, the Grand Stand was reached and the literary exercises of the Day were inaugurated.

Hon. M. P. Wiggin President of the Day, called the vast assemblage to order, and after music by the band, introduced Rev. G. B. Hinkle, Chaplain, who offered a prayer.

The Band then played "Red White and Blue."

The Declaration of Independence was read by Alex. Hunter.

General John R. Kittrell was then introduced and delivered one of the best orations we ever listened to, and we regret we have no room for its publication. The General was frequently applauded, and at the close the band played the "Star Spangled Banner."

W. Cuddy then recited "Drake's Address to the American Flag."

A. Graham read an original poem which was well received.

Rev. Mr. Hinkle pronounced the benediction and the assemblage dispersed.

THE HORRIBLES.

The Horribles paraded late in the afternoon. Staly orated from the grand stand, and Sanford was the poet. The whole town was out to witness the procession which afforded some amusement.

FIREWORKS.

In the evening the fireworks purchased by the committee were set off on Bodie Bluff, just south of the Con. Pacific works. The Committee made an unfortunate selection of a site for that purpose. A spot in or near the town should have been selected. The fireworks, as a whole, were a signal failure, and, as a friend suggests, must have been made of sawdust or badly damaged powder. There were but two or three decent pieces in the whole exhibition, the balance proving mere "flashes in the pan." There was scarcely sufficient force in the powder to carry the Roman Candle balls above a man's head, but Bodie is not the first and only town that has been victimized by manufacturers of fireworks.

The celebration in its entirety was highly creditable to the citizens of Bodie and the Committee of Arangements. Our people were brimful of enthusiasm and all entered into the celebration with a view of making it a grand success, and we doubt if there is a place in the State, outside of San Francisco, that did better than our mountain city.

INCIDENTALS.

What with scrub-races, rifle shooting, base ball, the greased pole, and Egyptian mystery, there were many opportunities for passing the nimble quarter.

The Miners' Union, in turning out so largely, wiped out, as with a big sponge, all the unpleasantness that had been created by their previous refusal to take part in the parade.

The fire department turned out well and made a fine display, although some of the companies did not turn out very strong. We thank the Champion Hose Company for the cheers given the CHRONICLE as that fine looking body of young men passed our office.

Our people are indebted to Superintendents Ellsworth and Irwin for the parade of artillery. Mr. Irwin had a sixpounder made from an old shaft—not a mining shaft—of the Standard Mill, and the salutes were fired with it from the Standard Mill. Col. Ellsworth had a smaller one made at the Booker Mine, and that did duty, after the procession, at the Booker.

Homicides.

This week has been one of homicides in Bodie. On Sunday evening last, Patrick Carroll was shot and killed in front of the Miners' Union Hall. Carroll was a member of the Union and opposed to a parade of the Udion on the Fourth. On Sunday evening the Union held a special meeting for the purpose, it was understood, of rescinding the resolution adopted at a previous meeting which opposed a parade of the members as a Union. Carroll was abusive and insulting to those favoring a parade, and the President was compelled to have him ejected from the hall by a committee of five, who were also ordered to guard the door. Carroll went off, but soon returned and attempted to enter the hall, when he was repulsed. A scuffle ensued between him and one of the guard, and Carroll was pushed off the sidewalk. Constable Stebbins was present and tried to prevent any disturbance, but Carroll drew his revolver and fired at the guard, who to save their own lives drew their pistols and returned the fire, killing Carroll almost instantly. He was carried to Boiset & Stewart's drug store, but died soon after. The body was then removed to Kelly & Carder's undertaking rooms. He was buried by the Union on Tuesday afternoon. Carroll is said to have been a bad man, and his sudden taking off is not regretted by those best acquainted with him. Coroner Deal held an inquest on Tuesday evening, and on Wednesday the jury rendered a verdict that he was shot by William Lemon and Eugene Godatt, members of the Union and that they acted in self defence.

About 7:30 on Monday evening the murderous revolver was again whipped out and James Kennedy, a wood chopper, given his death wound. While Kennedy was standing in front of Pat. Fahey's saloon, a man named William Baker came from an adjourning saloon, and, without saying a word, drew a revolver and shot Kennedy in the abdomen. Kennedy fell and crawled into Fahey's saloon and medical aid summoned. Baker was immediately arrested by Sheriff Taylor and taken to jail. Kennedy was taken to a room over Boiset & Stewart's drug store, where he received very attention from Dr. Robertson. The bullet was removed, but inflamation set in and Kennedy died about 1:30 on Wednesday afternoon. Kennedy was about 28 years old, and was a native of Canada, where he has an aged mother to mourn his loss. He has been engaged during the past year or so in cutting wood for the Booker mine, and was well liked by those acquainted with him. His funeral took place from the rooms of Kelly & Carder on Thursday afternoon, Col. Ellsworth, Superintendent of the Booker mine, having taken charge of his interment.

Yesterday morning Prudencia Encenos, a well known and much respected Mexican, was shot to death by Sam Chung, the notorious Chinaman. It appears that the victim was driving some mules back to the wood camp when they were intercepted by Chung, who attempted to keep them from going upon his unfenced garden. They went on, and hence the murder. Encenos was brought to town and the best of attention bestowed, but death ensued last night. Sam Chung is in jail at Bridgeport.

ANTELOPE VALLEY LINE.—Under "New To-day" will be found the advertisement of the U. S. Stage Company, which is now running a tri-weekly line of stages to Carson through Antelope Valley, leaving here at 3 o'clock on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday mornings, and arriving at Carson at 6 o'clock the same evening, making the trip by daylight. Passengers by this route connect with the cars at Carson and go right through to San Francisco, where they arrive the next day—making the entire trip in about 30 hours. Fare to Carson $15.

MORE SHOOTING.—About 4:30 on Wednesday morning, while John Allen, a Standard miner, was passing the Dividend saloon on his way home from work, some person shot him, the ball striking a rib and inflicting only a flesh wound. The ball was extracted by Dr. Rogers. It was reported that the shooting was done by Pierce, who recently shot officer Black, but that story is now denied.

THE FESTIVAL.—The festival given by the Catholic ladies of the city to Rev. Father Cassin on Tuesday evening was a brilliant affair. The ladies presiding at the refreshment tables did a good business and the entertainment was a grand success, financially and socially.

PERSONAL.—Yesterday morning Alfred, son of Judge Leavett, and John D., son of Judge Murphy, of Bridgeport, and Gay, son of G. L. Porter, of Bodie, left by private conveyance for Carson, en route to the Berkeley Gymnasium, to resume their studies.

NEW BUILDING.—The California and Nevada Telegraph Co. has removed its old office and commenced the erection of a two-story building on its site.

PUB. DOC.—Congressman Horace Davis will accept our thanks for public documents sent to this office.

The Enterprise says: Ex-Senator William Stewart is in town looking for pumping machinery for his Bodie mines. It is said he is negotiating for the purchase of the Lady Bryan machinery.

Water Pipe of boiler and sheet iron of any size, made in suitable lengths for connecting together, or sheets rolled, punched and packed for shipment, ready to be riveted on the ground.

Hydraulic Riveting.—Boiler work and water pipe made by this establishment riveted by hydraulic riveting machinery, that quality of work being far superior to hand work.

Pump.—For mining, of any capacity and of any style. Our style of direct acting compound engines, with double line of pumps, are particularly recommended.

Direct Acting Engines for underground work, irrigation, or city water works purposes, built with the celebrated Davey valve motion, superior to any other.

Mining Machinery.—Quartz mills, pans, boilers, hoisting machinery, sinking hoisting engines, or other machinery required. jly-3mis]

BIG MEADOWS AND BODIE TOLL ROAD.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE rates of tolls on the BIG MEADOWS AND BODIE WAGON ROAD are as follows:

Buggy team	$ 50
Loaded wagon and two animals	1 00
Each additional pair of animals	50
Horseman	25
Pack Animals, each	25
Hogs and sheep, each	2
Loose stock, each	5

Empty teams half-price.

The Road Company is entitled to collect, by authority of the Supervisors, $1 50 on each buggy team, and, also, fifty cents on each trail wagon, but, wishing to favor the teamsters in all ways, it concluded to make the above reductions, and, at the same time, to keep its roads in the best of order for travel. If any toll-gate keeper collects more tolls than the amounts set forth above, the person so imposed upon will confer a favor by reporting the same to the undersigned.

No deadheads will be permitted to pass on the road.

All tolls will be required to be paid at the time of passing the toll gates, as no credit is given.

Any toll keeper giving credit will be discharged.

THE CHRONICLE.

BODIE, JULY 10, 1880.

Taking Things for Granted.

Half the failures in life result from the habit so many people have of taking things for granted. The business man takes it for granted that his wife knows what style of living his income will warrant, until the logic of addition, subtraction and multiplication proves too much for him, and down comes his business in ruins. The young professional man takes it for granted that veneering instead of solid acquirements will enable him to succeed, because there are so many notorious examples of men's rising and maintaining themselves in public life, through pure audacity, native wit and an utter lack of conscience. He will find too late that it won't do to plan and risk a career by the exceptions rather than the rule. The farmer keeps no accounts; crops his farm according to the season or last year's markets, or his neighbor's success; takes it for granted that the laws of nature and of trade will accommodate themselves to his necessities; sinks deeper into debt, and wonders why farming doesn't pay.

And so on to the end; men everywhere want success without paying its price in thorough preparations, honest hard work, intelligent calculation and foresight, and patient attention to details. They take for granted things which it is their business to know, and trust that to fortune which common sense and experience should teach them is controlled by law.

In domestic life the same fatuity is felt. The unhappiness unconsciously and thoughtlessly inflicted aggregates a good part of the total felt in the average life. How many husbands take it for granted that their wives know they love them, and so never show it in the old lover-like way! How many take it for granted that the wife will ask for money if she needs it—heedless or ignorant of the pain it gives a sensitive woman to ask for every dollar she receives! How many fathers take it for granted that daughters need nothing but a home and clothing; that boys can not suffer for want of amusement, recreation, sympathy or companionship; that the tired mother would herself plan and execute a vacation rest if she needed it!

There is, of course, something to be said on the other side; but as a rule women are much more thoughtful in such matters than men are. If, however, any of them who read this conclude, on reflection, that they are receiving a little too much as a matter of course, the results of a husband's toil and fidelity, they will know how to make amends. The splendid devotions and sacrifices of manly men, illustrated every day and in all walks of life, are not matters to be accepted in an unsympathetic, listless, matter-of-fact way. It is not enough in this world to "mean well." We ought to do well. Thoughtfulness, therefore, becomes a duty, and gratitude one of the graces. Alike in the fine things of life and in its common work and duties let us not take—or leave those whom we love to take—too many things for granted.—Golden Rule.

A druggist's assistant was charged before the Correctional Chamber in Paris, a few days ago, with causing the death of a man by misreading a prescription. The Doctor whose writing is very clear, ordered eight drops of laudanum, which the assistant carelessly read as eight drammes, or about a quarter of an ounce. The overdose naturally killed the patient, and the Court sentenced the prisoner to three months' imprisonment. His advocate urged as an extenuating circumstance that if the mistake had caused the deceased his life, it had at least provided him with a painless death!

A recently-arrived foreigner lately stopped at one of our hotels, and at the supper table began to play fearful havoc with a plate of hard-boild eggs, scooping out the yolk and leaving the white untouched. Just as he was devouring the tenth one, the waiter remonstrated with him, calling his attention to his wastefulness. "Good gracious, man," he remarked, "you would not have the eat ten vites, would you? De yolks der chicken, and der vites der fedders. Do you thinks I vants ter make von great bolster of mine stomach?"—Raleigh News.

She was reading the newspaper, and came upon one of those scientific articles about how to prevent sunstroke. She said: "Professor somebody here says that anybody who drinks whisky is liable to drop dead; it is so heating." "I know that, and to counteract the heat I always take some ice in mine." "Yes, but the Professor says that drinking icewater is still more dangerous than whisky." "I'll have to be very careful, then, always to suck it through a straw."—Galveston News.

Every natural longing has its natural satisfaction. If we thirst, God has created liquids to gratify thirst. If we are susceptible of attachment, there are beings to gratify that love. If we thirst for life and love eternal, it is likely that there are an eternal life and an eternal love to satisfy that craving.—F. W. Robertson.

A female applicant for aid appeared at the office of the Director of the Poor in Detroit the other day, with a sad and anxious look, and on being asked what she wanted replied, "well, I can't say, exactly. How much do you generally give out to a person who wants to buy a bead belt?"

Commodore Nutt, the dwarf, says that kissing pretty girls gets awful tiresome after a while. The Norristown Herald says he will change his mind when he grows up.

There is not a single Catholic in the present House of Commons as the representative of a British constituency, but there are nine or ten Quakers, including two ministers of the denomination. Two centuries ago a Friend was at the bar of the Commons adjudged guilty of blasphemy and sentenced to be branded, burned, flogged and imprisoned, and it is less than half a century since the first Quaker member obtained his seat.

She was a Boston lady of culture. She stood watching a canal-boat loaded with ice as it was being locked into the canal from Lake Champlain.

"What is that boat loaded with?" she asked.

"Ice," was the reply.

"Oh, my!" she exclaimed in surprise; "if the horrid stuff should melt, the water would sink the boat!"

The heart can leap, flutter, sing and dance joyously in the dark cage of the bosom.

ARTICLES OF AGREEMENT MADE AND entered into this the First day of April, A. D. 1880, between David Hitchell, of Bodie, Mono County, State of California, Party of one part; and Sam Chung, of the same place, Party of the other part:

Witnesseth as follows:

The said parties above named have agreed to become copartners in business and by these presents do agree to become copartners in business together, under and by the name or firm of David Hitchell & Co. in the business of keeping a Lodging House and such other business as the above mentioned parties may hereafter agree to, and to occupy a house on A street, Homer Towns' in Mono County, State of California, their copartnership to commence on the day and year first above written, and to continue until dissolved either through a course of law or by mutual consent, and for that end and purpose the said David Hitchell and Sam Chung have delivered in as capital stock the sum of One thousand dollars each share and share alike, to be used and employed in common between them for the support and management of the said business and to their mutual benefit and advantage. And it is agreed by and between the parties to these presents that at all times during the continuence of their copartnership, they and each of them will give their attendance and to the utmost of their skill and power exert themselfs for their joint interest, profit, benefit and advantage, and truly employ, buy and sell merchandise with their joint stock and the increase th reof, in the business aforesaid, and also shall and will at all times during their copartnership bear, pay and discharge equally between them all rents, and other expenses that may be required for the support and management of the said business, and that all gains, profits and increase that come, grow, or arise from or by means of their said business, shall be divided between them, the said copartners, share and share alike, and all loss that shall happen to their said joint business by all commodities, bad debts or otherwise, shall be borne and paid equally between them. And it is agreed by and between the said parties that there shall be kept at all times during the continuance of their copartnership, perfect, just and true books of accounts wherein each of the said copartners shall enter and set down as well all moneys by them or either of them received, paid, laid out or expended in and about the said business, as also all the goods, wares, commodities and merchandise by them or either of them bought or sold by reason of or on account of the said business, and all other matters and things whatsoever to the said business and management thereof or in any wise belonging, which said books shall be used in common between the said copartner so that either of them may have access thereto. And the said parties hereby mutually covenant and agree to and with each other that during the continuance of the said partnership, neither of them shall or will indorse any note or otherwise become surety for any person or persons whomsoever without the consent of the said copartners. And at the end or other sooner determination of their copartnership, the said copartners each to the other shall and will make a true, just and final account of all things relating to their said business, and in all things truly adjust the same, and all and every stock and stocks, as well as the gains and increase thereof which shall appear to be remaining either in money, goods, wares and fixtures, debts or otherwise shall be divided between them, share and share alike.

In witness whereof the said parties to these presents have hereunto set their hands and seals the day and year above written.
